The meeting started with information on the situation in each country and at the university from all partners.

All partner organisation were represented.

Jack Barokas informed the partners that already 14 master classes were delivered live on-line. They are recorded and they are public in YouTube.

He suggested to organise them in one curriculum and to continue teaching even after the project end. In that way we will have very sustainable results. Jack Barikas said that TAU bought a licence for 3 years. So, the NanoEI courses will be free online three years after the project end.

All partners agreed. Yossi Talyosef will write the NanoEI curriculum and present on the next meeting.

It was decided that all teaching events will start at 9:00 CET or at 08:00 CET to respect the time difference between the different countries.

Jack proposed to describe briefly our new initiative to provide live lectures and webinars to the students and to disseminate it in the social media.

Slavka discussed the correction in the reporting documents that should be done and only two partners have sent their corrected reports. TUS has checked all reporting documents and a list of documents with some mistakes or missing information was done for each partner.

The partners are expected to correct their documents until the next meeting.

Co-funded by the Erasmus+ Programme of the European Union

The possibility to make the last meeting in China at CTBU before the project end was discussed. Unfortunately, for now it is impossible. All foreigners visiting China must stay in quarantine for two weeks. The same is the rule for the people coming to Europe from countries outside EU.

Zhaochu Yang invited all partners to visit CTBU when the COVID situation allows it. He was so kind to finance the visit of NanoEI partners in China with CTBU's funds.

All partners appreciated this and it is another proof for the sustainability of NanoEI-Asia project.

The next Zoom meeting will be on 10 June 2021 from 08:00 CET.
